

Statehood

Michigan's first state capitol building was its territorial capitol in Detroit. Visitors enter through the door of a reproduction of that building. Inside, a portrait of territorial governor Lewis Cass and a mannequin of first state governor Stevens T. Mason oversee the stories of statehood, surveying and the Toledo War.